The N11 Numbering System

- An N11 code or N11 number (said as "N-one-one") is a special abbreviated three digit telephone numbers within the North America Numbering Plan which allows for access to special services.
- In Canada, N11 numbers are assigned by the Canadian Radio-Television Telecommunications Commission.
- The 2-1-1 number was assigned by the CRTC in 2000 to act as the three digit number for information and referral to health, social, government and community-based services.
